1984 GRAIN DIRECTORY/BUYER'S GUIDE

This 1984 Grain Directory/Buyer's Guide comprises three sections. The first is the Grain Directory; the second is a Buyer's Guide of grain equipment and services; the third is the Transportation Directory and Buyer's Guide. The Grain Directory/Buyer's Guide was first published as a separate directory by Milling & Baking News in 1978.

The Grain Directory provides a comprehensive listing of companies in grain, including headquarters and plant personnel, terminal, sub-terminal, river and port elevator locations and capacities, receiving and loading methods, rail carriers and elevator services. The Grain Directory includes a list of U.S. grain exporters and alphabetical listings of grain companies and grain executives. This year it also contains an update on outstanding new facilities and major expansion projects as well as a review of trends in grain storage.

The Buyer's Guide includes a complete listing of products and services for grain and an alphabetical listing of companies manufacturing these products. Suggestions on how to use the Buyer's Guide appear on Page 59. The transportation section provides a listing of the major grain hauling railroads, motor freight companies and barge companies.

Outstanding new units and expansions

WESTWEGO, LA. — Continental Grain Co. has completed a major expansion of its recently reconstructed elevator at Westwego. The project doubled the shipping capacity of the facility, creating the largest throughput potential for any single export elevator in the United States.

Special features include two separate loading berths so that two vessels may be loaded simultaneously; four shipping belts to serve ships at a rate of nearly 4,500 tonnes per hour; a wharf 1,170 feet long; two high-speed barge unloaders capable of handling 35 to 38 barges in a 24-hour period; direct transfer of meal, pellets and other bulk commodities to either berth simultaneously with grain shipment; rail unloading accommodating two 110-car unit trains per 24 hours; totally automated operations with centralized control through programmable controllers, and extensive dust control using 40 bag-house filter collectors.

The Continental elevator incorporates state-of-the-art safety features. The reconstruction and addition of the second berth were designed by R.S. Fling & Partners, Inc., Columbus, Ohio. Fling Construction Management directed construction on site.

The Westwego elevator's local general manager is David Borchert.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEXAS. — The Corpus Christi Public Grain Elevator was reopened July 1, 1983, with its capacity doubled after a undergoing two years of reconstruction.

The export facility now can store up to 5,200,000 bus. The unit features a sophisticated rail-unloading system that can handle 75-car unit trains and that has an unloading capacity of 80,000 bus per hour. Rail car loadout capacity is 20,000 bus per hour. The Corpus Christi elevator also features multiple-truck unloading capacity of about 40,000 bus per hour.

The elevator has a single berth with a 36-foot draft. Ships can be loaded at the rate of between 80,000 and 100,000 bus per hour.

R.S. Fling & Partners of Columbus, Ohio provided engineering and design services. Fling Construction Management directed the overall building project. The general contractor was SCE, of Birmingham, Alabama.

The onsite elevator management includes Jerry Cotter, manager; Bill Jackson, general superintendent, and Mike Shuyler, operative superintendent.

KALAMA, WASH. — Peavey Grain Companies, a subsidiary of ConAgra, Inc., will complete construction of its Kalama, Washington, export elevator by October 15, 1983. The completely automated elevator is located at the 75-mile marker on the Columbia River and has a draft of 40 feet. Local management team includes Ken Johnson, manager; Larry Bongle, superintendent, and Jerry Meyer, project manager.

Koger and Boxill, Inc. of Baton Rouge, La., was responsibile for design procurement services. Wright, Schuchart Harbor Co. of Seattle, Wash., is managing on-site construction.

The Kalama elevator features the latest in safety and dust-control equipment. All conveyance of grain will be via inclined conveyors, eliminating the need for elevator legs.

The facility will receive grain by both rail and barge. Two unloading pits give the Peavey elevator the capacity to unload rail cars at the rate of 100,000 bu per hour. A loop track allows for the holding of 225 rail cars for unloading. The elevator has one barge berth capable of unloading a barge at the rate of 40,000 bus per hour.

Storage capacity is 2,000,000 bus with an additional 200,000 bus of storage in shipping bins. Loadout capacity is 100,000 bus per hour.

CONVENT, LA. — Zen-Noh Grain Corp., the U.S. subsidiary of the Japanese cooperative Zen-Noh, completed work on its Convent, Louisiana, port facility in the summer of 1982.

Sy Bichler, president and chief executive officer of Zen-Noh Grain Corp., heads an experienced management team comprising John W. Harper, vice-president, secretary and manager of marketing; Ken Takahashi, treasurer and executive vice-president, and Warren Duffy, elevator superintendent.

The Zen-Noh Grain Corp. elevator handles primarily feed grains for shipment to Japan. The elevator is located at about the 164-mile marker on the Mississippi. The draft is 40 feet, enabling the elevator to handle ships of up to 120,000 tonnes in capacity. Most ships that call on Zen-Noh are in the 50,000 to 60,000-tonne category. The Zen-Noh elevator has four Buhler shiploaders that allow for a ship-loading rate of 120,000 bus per hour. Storage capacity, excluding the 12 shipping bins, is about 3.7 million bus.

The elevator was designed by R.S. Fling & Partners, Inc. of Columbus, Ohio. Jim Bleke & Associates of Gretna, La., served as project manager.

The floating elevators of New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — Eight floating transshipment and storage facilities are located on the Lower Mississippi River between the Port of New Orleans and Baton Rouge. These facilities offer ocean-going vessels an alternative mode of taking on a cargo of grain or grain products.

Trends from the '84 Grain Directory

The 1984 Grain Directory lists 548 grain elevators, with an aggregate storage capacity of 1,828,361,421 bus. The totals include 71 port elevators with a total capacity of 343,752,000 bus; 197 terminal elevators with an aggregate capacity of 974,966,759 bus; 177 subterminals with a total capacity of 359,557,662 bus, and 103 river elevators with total capacity of 150,085,000 bus. (See tables on this page.) A definition of each category appears on the first page of each elevator section.

The elevators listed in the directory account for approximately 4% of the total number of off-farm grain storage facilities; not listed are the thousands of country elevators, processing plants, flour mills, etc., that have grain storage capacities. According to statistics of the United States Department of Agriculture, the elevators in this directory account for about 25% of the nation's total off-farm grain storage capacity.

The 1983 Grain Directory totals included 70 port elevators with a total capacity of 329,201,000 bus; 230 terminal elevators with an aggregate capacity of 978,999,376 bus; 163 subterminals with total capacity of 315,021,690 bus, and 87 river elevators with total capacity of 133,229,000. Aggregate capacity of all 550 elevators listed last year was 1,805,451,066 bus.

Several listings that appeared in the 1983 directory were entered under different categories this year at the request of the companies involved; for instance, a number of elevators classified as terminal elevators in the 1983 directory were reclassified as subterminals. Overall, the statistics indicate that 1984 was a year of modest expansion in grain storage capacity. The most exciting examples of this expansion were the bringing on line of the new Zen-Noh export elevator at Convent, Lousiana, the major expansion of Continental's Westwego elevator, the reconstruction of the Corpus Christi Public Elevator and the rapid progress of construction on Peavey Companies' Kalama, Washington, elevator, to be opened this fall.

Scales are tough, yet highly sophisticated pieces of equipment. They can get out of calibration — and cost you money. The causes are simple: dirt buildup, adjustment drift, operator abuse, and just plain wear.

The remedy is just as simple: call Toledo Scale.

We have a fleet of heavy capacity test equipment on wheels. Each heavy duty mobile service unit, manned by factory-trained technicians, has a gross testing capacity of up to 48,000 pounds. Ideal for checking truck and railroad scales, livestock and bulkweighers, hopper and tank scales.

To learn how our Heavy Duty Test Truck can help save you money, call Tom Mylin (toll free) at 1-800-438-4466 (in Ohio, call 614-438-4745). Or write: Toledo Scale, Attn: Service Marketing, P.O. Box 1705, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Dust-Sorb®

suppresses grain dust.

Dust-Sorb is:

- A patented product for dust suppression.
- More economical than mechanical methods.
- Applied to moving streams of grain on the way to storage.
- Applied by application equipment that is simple, inexpensive and energy efficient.
- A product that simultaneously provides a practical solution for most problems resulting from grain dust emissions and offers no known negative factors.

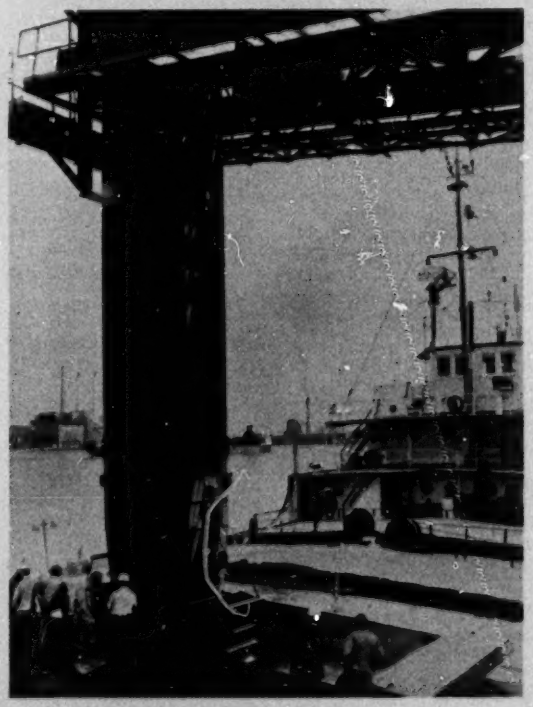
Grain handling systems from GEC



GEC designs, manufactures and installs complete handling systems and individual machines for grain and derivatives. Installations include ship loading and unloading systems at ports, and port or in-land storage systems.

The Company has a range of ship unloading machines which is designed for low energy consumption. Special attention is paid to clean-up devices for pneumatic and mechanical ship unloaders to speed up vessel turn round. The GEC microprocessor operated suction control system gives single receiver pneumatic unloaders a better performance than machines with two independent air circuits.

GEC's range of ship loading machines includes equipment to load out bulk or bagged cargo, and combined machines which will handle both types of cargo.

"Using our GRAINMASTER® System through the last two harvest seasons eliminated the need for any extra clerical help."

Don Satterfield, Mgr., and Betty Primm, Office Mgr., Dicken Grain, Sycamore, IL.

"We normally hired two extra people to help us handle the daily paperwork during harvest—and even then we fell behind! Now, with our GRAINMASTER System, we can receive and ship 1,500,000 bu. of beans and corn with just the two of us in charge. We know our position at any time of the day and we're out of the elevator one-half hour after closing the scale—all the paperwork—including the Daily Position Record—Done! We'd hate to think of operating without it!"

Find out why Don Satterfield, Betty Primm, and others think GRAINMASTER® is a tool for successful elevator management.

STILL THE TOUGHEST IN THE JUNGLE

Rhino Hyde Sheeting,® The Original
Lasts up to 20 times longer than steel sheeting. FDA approved for handling dry bulk foodstuffs. Resilient polyurethane elastomeric sheeting molded to 13 or 18 gauge steel backing. Uniform thickness. Resilient for gentle handling of materials.

Ceramic Rhino Hyde Sheeting®
Thousands of ceramic granules embedded in resilient polyurethane Rhino Hyde Sheeting can take the beating and abrasion of hundreds of millions of bushels of grain and show very little wear. Easy to install. Uniform thickness of 5/16" Ceramic Rhino Hyde on standard 13 gauge steel backing or special order 18 gauge steel.

Bin Level Sensors*
Sensors encapsulated in Rhino Hyde Sheeting electronically detect material. Easy to install, intrinsically safe, reliable. UL Listed.

DCL Bulk Loading Systems — NEW
DCL bulk loading spouts are designed for speed and ease of loading with freedom from dust. The DCL retractable contained flow spout system has unique Rhino Hyde® polyurethane wear and abrasion resistent inner cones to prevent outer sleeve wear. DCL units are available for truck, rail and barge sizes.

Cerasurf
High alumina content ceramic bricks and tiles have a MOH hardness rating of 9. (Diamonds are 10). Can withstand the tortures of handling grains, ores, coal, cement. Outlasts steel many times over.

Rhino Hyde® Everwear® Buckets
Tough molded Rhino Hyde polyurethane outwears steel, nylon and polyethylene buckets. Non-sparking and quiet. Half the weight of steel. Thirty-one sizes.

Toledo Bucket-SLOW SPEED LEG*
Cargill's new slow speed leg reduces leg maintenance, grain breakage and dust. Capacities range from 5,000 bph to 120,000 bph.

NEW Cerathane®-SEAMLESS CERAMIC TILE*
Manufactured in sections up to 10 feet long. Molded into almost any shape. Pre-stressed and reinforced to eliminate impact fractures. Combines the hardness of ceramic with the ease of Rhino Hyde installation. Excellent for high velocity loadout spouts.

Dust Suppressors*
Rhino Hyde construction. No electrical or hydraulic connections. Lightweight. Sizes available for both vertical and incline spouts.

AGRI Industries is one of the leading farmer-owned regional grain marketers in the world. We represent over 700 local elevators, with a total storage capacity of nearly one billion bushels, strategically located throughout the Midwestern and Southern United States.

Eighty years strong, AGRI markets grain both domestically and abroad, through our Midwestern facilities and our six-and-one-half million bushel export terminal in Houston, one of the most efficient bagging operations in the world.
